Farmers require ongoing education to stay aware of fast-moving developments in technology, science, business management, and an array of other skills and fields that affect agricultural operations. NIFA initiatives increase farmers' knowledge in these areas and help them adopt practices that are profitable, environmentally sound, and contribute to quality of life.

IMPORTANCE OF FARMER EDUCATION

Farmers – beginning and experienced – are critical to creating rural prosperity in the United States. However, farmers face unique challenges and require education and training to ensure their success.

Training helps farmers to incorporate the latest scientific advances and technology tools into their daily operations. The results of enhancing their operations with these tools increases efficiency and can also lead to:

Less harm to the environment

Reduced food contamination

Reduction of the need for water and chemicals for crops

Increased profits

NIFA'S IMPACT

NIFA supports programs and projects that help experienced and new farmers:

Make sound financial management decisions and discover new economic opportunities

Apply scientific knowledge to enhance stewardship of the land, water, and ecosystems

Understand the implications of public policy on their operations

Use new tools and technologies to enhance operations and increase profit

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

Name Brij Mohan qualification m.sc horticulture BTC and teaching experience Food Quality

Post-harvest losses, global competition, and rising consumer demand for better food quality requires scientists to understand the biological, physical, and chemical properties of food and food ingredients. The U.S. Department of Agriculture collaborates with academic, federal and industry partners to understand the science of foods and to improve processing and packaging technologies. These efforts help meet the demand for nutritious, convenient, and globally competitive food products.

IMPORTANCE OF FOOD SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

Advancements in science and technology continue to expand the breadth and quality of food production. As a result of rapidly evolving technologies, the public has been afforded access to a food supply that is:

Abundant and diverse

Available at a lower cost

Resistant to spoilage

Safe and nutritious

NIFA'S IMPACT

NIFA initiatives are directed towards improving the production and quality of foods. The agency's projects are:

Developing innovative processing technologies to improve the quality of foods and reduce post-harvest losses

Conducting research to understand the molecular structure and functionality of foods and food ingredients

Improving production efficiency and resource conservation in the food industry

Advancing packaging science and engineering to improve food packaging materials and systems

Name Ankit garg qualification m.tech in computer science from Ambala Workforce Development

A competitive workforce is vital to establishing a sustainable agricultural future. As innovation continues to impact agriculture, current and future farmers, workers and scientists must learn to use more advanced technologies and draw from a broader base of scientific knowledge. Workforce development programs are intended to help current and future workers and scientists meet the demands of highly skilled positions.

IMPORTANCE OF WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT

A huge constraint to addressing some of the world's most pressing challenges - increasing agricultural production to feed a growing population and increasing industrial demand, despite most natural resources being already fully utilized - is growth in human talent. Hence, in addition to indirectly supporting educational opportunities through capacity building programs at Minority Serving Institutions and Learning and Engagement Programs, NIFA directly supports recruitment and training of students through grants to educational institutions for Workforce Development Programs.

NIFA'S IMPACT

NIFA is helping to expand the agricultural workforce by supporting programs that:

Fund scholarships for students pursuing undergraduate degrees in agriculture-related fields

Provide research and extension experiences through structured programs that incorporate mentoring and hands-on experiences in the United States or abroad

Train graduate students in targeted disciplines of national importance in USDA mission relevant areas

Support Pre-doctoral and post-doctoral students to help advance food, agriculture, natural resources and human sciences.

5 Years experience in panchkarma (AYUSH) Ambala city , having good knowledge of panchkarma, and reflexology as well. belongs to ambala district from shahpur nurhad village, he is a married person and belongs to a very nice family. he has studied +2 from shahpur nurhad as well and graduation from ambala city. he is doing up down from his village to government hospital ambala city that is around 35km. according to him as everyone knows that alepathic medicines causes lot of side effect in human body but in ayurveda there will be no sideeffect in future use of ayurvedic medicine in comparision of alopethic. according to him benefits of panchkarma are listed below:

Panchakarma is a natural, powerful way to slow multiple degenerative processes in the body. For example, Panchakarma is actually capable of slowing the aging process. Because Ayurveda promotes natural and holistic methods for healthy aging, it is well-known as a rejuvenation treatment.

Panchakarma can lead to an immune boost! In fact, one particularly amazing story describes a man diagnosed with Hepatitis C who regularly utilizes Panchakarma treatment to maintain his viral load and liver function. However, Panchakarma isn't just useful for fighting deadly viruses—the healthier body promoted by Ayurveda will also be better equipped to fight colds, respiratory infections, and other minor occurrences.

By eliminating toxins from your body, Panchakarma assists individuals in improving their health and wellness while enhancing their mental clarity and increasing their energy levels. By freeing the body of harmful chemicals, you can allow it a chance to function at its best (and relax at its best, too).

Remember that visiting a Panchakarma treatment centre is more than simply receiving detox treatments. Instead, Panchakarma treatment is an experience to be relished and enjoyed, designed to soothe the body and mind. Individuals who complete these treatments claim improvements in mental well-being as well as their physical health—

I have done beauty course from Parlour.and practised there .Since 3 years .I have my own parlour named Drishti in Ambala cantt.There are three very important aspects that play a major rule in my life. They can be categorized as intellectual, social, and spiritual. My intellectual self is interesting because I am mainly right-brained which means that I tend to use my creativity more than my mathematical skills, also making me a visual learner. My social self consists of friends, family, and my surroundings. I spend most of my time at home with my family. Whenever I am with my friends, I observe their behaviors and listen to their opinions. I am more of an independent type of person. Being with different people has influenced me into appreciating different cultures and beliefs. I have learned things that have now been incorporated into my own set of beliefs.I find that I can only recall long-term memories if they are important to me, or if they are dramatic experiences. A few examples of my childhood memories are my mother reading to me, my grandfather playing his guitar

Sandeep malik is working in GOVT. HOSPITAL(AYUSH) ambala city, According to him benefits of yoga are listed below :

Yoga is known for its ability to ease stress and promote relaxation.

In fact, multiple studies have shown that it can decrease the secretion of cortisol, the primary stress hormone (2Trusted Source, 3Trusted Source).

One study demonstrated the powerful effect of yoga on stress by following 24 women who perceived themselves as emotionally distressed.

After a three-month yoga program, the women had significantly lower levels of cortisol. They also had lower levels of stress, anxiety, fatigue and depression (4Trusted Source).

Another study of 131 people had similar results, showing that 10 weeks of yoga helped reduce stress and anxiety. It also helped improve quality of life and mental health (5Trusted Source).

When used alone or along with other methods of alleviating stress, such as meditation, yoga can be a powerful way to keep stress in check.

Many people begin practicing yoga as a way to cope with feelings of anxiety.

Interestingly enough, there is quite a bit of research showing that yoga can help reduce anxiety.

In one study, 34 women diagnosed with an anxiety disorder participated in yoga classes twice weekly for two months.

At the end of the study, those who practiced yoga had significantly lower levels of anxiety than the control group (6Trusted Source).

Another study followed 64 women with post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), which is characterized by severe anxiety and fear following exposure to a traumatic event.

After 10 weeks, the women who practiced yoga once weekly had fewer symptoms of PTSD. In fact,

The people who affect my social life the most are my family and friends. I have an extremely close family that has played a major role in my life. They are whom I spend most of my spare time with. My family usually gathers every weekend for dinner. I am also very open to different religions, cultures, and practices because I know many people with different backgrounds and beliefs. Since I've been influenced by various people, I've learned at a very young age to never judge people by how they look, dress, feel, or act. I am very fortunate to have learned these lessons, because many people still do not understand the importance of accepting differences. In a group, I prefer to listen to what others have to say, and then contribute to the discussion. I try to listen so I am able to compare them to my own thoughts. I enjoy working in a group, because it gives everyone an opportunity to incorporate their own ideas. My social self is most greatly influenced by my family and friends. I believe that my spiritual self is the most important out of the three.

Renu is running her personal saloon in shehzadpur and according to her benefits of meicure are as follows:

While manicures and pedicures are a great way to feel pampered, their benefits go much beyond indulging yourself. Regular mani-pedi treatments are a must not only to acquire a well-groomed look but also to keep your nails healthy. Let's look at the top 7 reasons why regularly tending to your hands and feet is essential.

If you have just returned from a lovely beach holiday, don't try to cover up your tan lines with long-sleeved apparels and closed shoes. Instead, just book a mani-pedi session at the earliest! The combination of bleaching, exfoliating and soaking in warm water works to remove stubborn tan marks, thus revealing your natural skin tone.

Keeps your Nails Healthy Besides working hard for us, our hands and feet are also exposed to a lot of dirt, moisture, and other pollutants that can build up under your nails and cause problems. Regular mani-pedi sessions remove dirt from under your nails and hard-to-reach places, thus keeping your nails strong and healthy. This in turn will reduce your chances of getting an infection.

Personas are fictional characters, which you create based upon your research in order to represent the different user types that might use your service, product, site, or brand in a similar way. Creating personas will help you to understand your users' needs, experiences, behaviours and goals. Creating personas can help you step out of yourself. It can help you to recognise that different people have different needs and expectations, and it can also help you to identify with the user you're designing for. Personas make the design task at hand less complex, they guide your ideation processes, and they can help you to achieve the goal of creating a good user experience for your target user group.

As opposed to designing products, services, and solutions based upon the preferences of the design team, it has become standard practice within many human centred design disciplines to collate research and personify certain trends and patterns in the data as personas. Hence, personas do not describe real people, but you compose your personas based on real data collected from multiple individuals. Personas add the human touch to what would largely remain cold facts in your research. When you create persona profiles of typical or atypical (extreme) users, it will help you to understand patterns in your research,

Name Ankit garg qualification m.tech in computer science A computer is a device that accepts information (in the form of digitalized data) and manipulates it for some result based on a program, software, or sequence of instructions on how the data is to be processed.

Complex computers include the means for storing data (including the program, which is also a form of data) for some necessary duration. A program may be invariable and built into the computer hardware (and called logic circuitry as it is on microprocessors) or different programs may be provided to the computer (loaded into its storage and then started by an administrator or user). Today's computers have both kinds of programming.

Major types of computers

Analog computer - represents data by measurable quantities

Desktop computer - a personal computer that fits on a desk and is often used for business or gaming

Digital computer - operates with numbers expressed as digits

Hybrid computer - combines features of both analog and digital computers

Laptop (notebook) - an easily transported computer that is smaller than a briefcase

Mainframe (big iron) computer - a centralized computer used for large scale computing

Microcomputer - generally referred to as a PC (personal computer). Uses a single integrated semiconductor chip microprocessor.

Minicomputer - an antiquated term for a computer that is smaller than a mainframe and larger than a microcomputer

Netbook - a smaller and less powerful version of a laptop

Personal computer (PC) - a digital computer designed to be used by one person at a time

Smartphone - a cellular telephone designed with an

Rajinder kumar 12th with non medical and B.Tech in ece & BCA in the starting of job he worked in a software company as a fresher BUT HE IS WORKING HOD ECE AND COMPUTER SCIENCE IN E-MAX GROUP OF COLLEGE, BADHOULI. This persona cuts straight to the nitty-gritty. “It focusses on: What does my typical user want to do with my product?”. The objective of a goal-directed persona is to examine the process and workflow that your user would prefer to utilise in order to achieve their objectives in interacting with your product or service. There is an implicit assumption that you have already done enough user research to recognise that your product has value to the user, and that by examining their goals, you can bring their requirements to life. The goal-directed personas are based upon the perspectives of Alan Cooper, an American software designer and programmer who is widely recognized as the “Father of Visual Basic”.

The role-based perspective is also goal-directed and it also focusses on behaviour. The personas of the role-based perspectives are massively data-driven and incorporate data from both qualitative and quantitative sources. The role-based perspective focusses on the user’s role in the organisation. In some cases, our designs need to reflect upon the part that our users play in their organisations or wider lives. An examination of the roles that our users typically play in real life can help inform better product design decisions

Name Kamna Sharma qualification m.tech from Ambala Learn the basics of in-demand skills like programming, information technology, software engineering, systems architecture and management, and networking. You can earn a free certificate of completion for any of these online Computer Science courses, or use many of them to earn credit in leading computer science, information technology, and cybersecurity college programs.

In our Computer Science courses, you will learn to: write programs using Object-Oriented Programming concepts such as objects, classes, inheritance and polymorphism;

apply the object-oriented methodology in software engineering to create UML artifacts for software analysis, requirements, design, and testing; and learn project management concepts in a software engineering environment to manage projects, people, and products. Computers are used as control systems for a wide variety of industrial and consumer devices. This includes simple special purpose devices like microwave ovens and remote controls, factory devices such as industrial robots and computer-aided design, and also general purpose devices like personal computers and mobile devices such as smartphones. The Internet is run on computers and it connects hundreds of millions of other computers and their users.

Early computers were only conceived as calculating devices. Since ancient times, simple manual devices like the abacus aided people in doing calculations. Early in the Industrial Revolution, some mechanical devices were built to automate long tedious tasks, such as guiding patterns for looms. More sophisticated electrical machines did specialized analog calculations in the early 20th century. The first digital electronic calculating machines were developed during World War II. The first transistors in the late 1940s were followed by the MOS transistor and integrated circuit in the late 1950s, leading to the

Keep in mind that a strong thesis paper requires sharpness to maintain its quality. For a fact, there can be a lot of factors that could affect the outcome as well as the quality of the thesis; the writer should have a control over these significant factors.

Furthermore, some factors shall affect the thesis in a positive way while other factors could have a negative impact on the paper. It is worth mentioning that negative factors could reduce the research's validity so these factors must be certainly kept in control by the writer. To put it simple, the thesis must be something that can be controlled or measured. All the things that you include in it should be carefully planned and take into account that this could not happen by chance.

Fire Alarm Systems.

Smoke Detectors.

Fire Hydrants.

Fire Safety Service.

Fire Sprinklers.

Fire Blankets.

Fire Suits. HE ALSO TELL ABOUT General Fire Fighting Equipment

Fighting fires is a firefighter's primary duty. After receiving notification that a fire is in progress, a firefighter will suit up in the appropriate safety gear before climbing aboard or driving one of several different types of fire trucks. Some of the trucks carry or pump water, some are "aerial ladder" trucks that raise ladders to the upper floors of buildings, and some are rescue trucks that transport fire victims to emergency medical centres. After reaching the site, each firefighter works under a commanding officer and has a specific task to perform. Hose operators, for instance, connect hoses to fire hydrants and then direct the flow of water towards the fire while a pump operator controls the water flow. Those who guide the aerial ladders are known as tillers. Others are responsible for entering burning buildings to rescue potential victims. While all firefighters must have EMT certifications, some specialize in the task of stabilizing victims once they are brought out of the burning structure.

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

HE HAS EXPERTISE IN FINANCIAL SECURITY. HE TEACHES STUDENTS ABOUT FINANCIAL SECURITY AND HOW TO SAVE THEIR HARD EARNED MONEY FROM FINANCIAL FRAUDS. Financial security refers to the peace of mind you feel when you aren't worried about your income being enough to cover your expenses. It also means that you have enough money saved to cover emergencies and your future financial goals. HOW TO USE BANKING AND FINANCIAL SERVICES IN SECURED WAY. A security is a tradable financial asset. The term commonly refers to any form of financial instrument, but its legal definition varies by jurisdiction. In some jurisdictions the term specifically excludes financial instruments other than equities and fixed income instruments. In some jurisdictions it includes some instruments that are close to equities and fixed income, e.g., equity warrants. In some countries and languages the term "security" is commonly used in day-to-day parlance to mean any form of financial instrument, even though the underlying legal and regulatory regime may not have such a broad definition.

COOLING : removal of HEAT. (by water. generally for Class "A")

STARVATION : removal of FUEL (by cutting fuel supply)

SMOTHERING : removal of OXYGEN. (by using CO2 or DCP- dry chemical powder)

CHAIN BREAKING MECHANISM : break the chain. (by DCP)

or (BLANKETING) HE TEACHES STUDENTS ABOUT THEIR SOURCE AND General Fire Fighting Equipment

Fire fighting systems and equipment vary depending on the age, size, use and type of building construction. A building may contain some or all of the following features:

- fire extinguishers
- fire hose reels
- fire hydrant systems
- automatic sprinkler systems.

Fire hydrant systems

Fire hydrant systems are installed in buildings to help firefighters quickly attack the fire. Essentially, a hydrant system is a water reticulation system used to transport water in order to limit the amount of hose that firefighters have to lay, thus speeding up the fire fighting process.

Fire hydrants are for the sole use of trained firefighters (which includes factory fire fighting teams). Because of the high pressures available serious injury can occur if untrained persons attempt to operate the equipment connected to such installations.
