BRIEF DESCRIPTION

Mr. Bikram Rijra is a well experienced person in his profession . He has 17 years of experience in his field. He has good command in his subject and also he is very interactive. He always share information about latest technologies with students and students took keen interest during his lecture . His teaching methodology is very effective . He always use special presentations during his lecture and also put some questions to the students and solve their queries too. Students always feel free to interact with him. He is very soft spoken and always remain willing to share his experience and knowledge with students. He is well known for his teaching methodologies and for his good behavior. He has updated knowledge in the field of computers. He is a good software developer too. His Specialization in computer languages "C","C++",JAVA and VB. He developed many software and achieved good name in his field .

He is very hard working person and down to earth .
Make class work a non-issue

This is HARD, but take the class work out of the equation for a short time and work on the relationship ... work the "work" back in later.

Try the peer tutor technique

Ask yourself, is the difficult student good in one subject? Can he tutor a fellow student? Can he help someone else succeed? It works BOTH ways.

Never give up

No matter the behavior, don't give up on trying to reach that student...the negativity may be a defense for something deeper. Keep up the good fight!

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

A makeup artist uses the face as a canvas to create a particular look using cosmetics, enhancing features and working with color to correct skin tone and emphasize natural beauty. A trained and experienced makeup artist might work in a salon or department store, specialize in wedding and event makeup, or work in the fashion industry, television, film or theatre, applying everything from natural looks through to dramatic theatrical makeup.

Makeup artistry is a creative career with a wide array of possibilities, and successful artists are able to use design skills, experimentation and products to create stunning looks. Makeup artists must keep up with fashion trends and product developments, and have an interest in skin science and beauty.

With a cosmetology qualification from an accredited school and relevant experience, the job possibilities for a makeup artist are varied. Work in the salon industry is relatively stable, with jobs predicted to grow over the next decade by 14%. You might also work in a department or cosmetics store in product sales for a steady career. Jobs in other industries such as television, theatre and film are fiercely competitive, and there is no guarantee that even with training you will find regular work. Experience is essential to land this kind of job, and often a little bit of luck!

Managing staff is not an easy job. Be friendly with your staff, avoid confrontations when you are dealing with issues, allow them leaves on holidays or when sick, etc. The more flexible you are, the more willing they will be to go the extra mile. One of the most basic challenges that business owners face is getting clients. Different businesses use a wide variety of tactics to attract clients to their services. Think of different marketing ideas, give attractive discounts, run special offers, and let people know you are there. Word of mouth is a great marketing tool; do not rely on social media only, although it is a great way to let people know about your salon. Display prices at the front desk, along with special offers.

Every business faces some struggles in the beginning. The most important element when running a business is to keep an eye on your competitors. Trends are changing every day, it seems; make sure to stay updated with the latest fashions (haircuts, dying, nails, etc.). Hire beauticians who come with an extensive background of trends. And, if not, offer a training program to get your employees up to speed. The services provided by your beauticians will have a huge impact on your business progress our employees are your business asset. As a business owner, it is your responsibility to encourage and motivate them. When an employee believes that their employee will take care of their needs, they will be willing to loyally stand by the business, through good and bad times. Offer incentives such as a bonus, gift hampers, or even health insurance. If you offer them support and make them feel secure, they will be one of the most positive assets to your salon.

Image result for challenges of a cosmetologist

Being in pain from repetitive stress injuries, like getting a sore and injured back, neck and arms from working all day, can also cause work fatigue. You have to take care of yourself so you don't burn out. The work itself can be repetitive, so cosmetologists need to do something to keep their minds fresh.

You need to know that beauticians must be licensed in the state where they work. State laws vary but typically beauticians must be at least 9 years old, have a high school diploma or GED, and complete a state-approved cosmetology program. The cost of an education varies considerably, depending on the type of school. Enrolling in a public technical college is generally the most affordable option. Graduates are eligible to take a state licensing examination. Continuing education may be required to renew the license.

Make class work a non-issue

This is HARD, but take the class work out of the equation for a short time and work on the relationship ... work the “work” back in later.

Try the peer tutor technique

Ask yourself, is the difficult student good in one subject? Can he tutor a fellow student? Can he help someone else succeed? It works BOTH ways.

Never give up

No matter the behavior, don't give up on trying to reach that student...the negativity may be a defense for something deeper. Keep up the good fight!

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

The word 'teacher' represents knowledge transfer of the knowledge from the teacher to the taught. In fact, the foundation that builds a person in life is to great extent based on the knowledge he gets from his teacher. If there is somebody other than our parents who plays an important role in our mental development, it's our teachers. Foradian pays a tribute to the positive and inspiring role that holds the ladder that we all climb as students, with some interesting quotes on teachers made by great personalities from various fields:

Problems and challenges faced by Indian teachers in the classroom and outside

Professional status of teaching

Teaching is not considered as one of the most sought after career in India; hence the primary challenge is to raise the status of teaching as a career choice. This stems from the general perception that people harbor about this profession which is, that anyone can become a teacher as it takes minimal skill and is nothing but glorified baby-sitting.

Commercialization of education

The general Indian mentality believes that privatization is the solution to everything dysfunctional in our country. This public perception stems from the status quo that an Indian family enjoys when they send their children to these 'Modern temples of education' which have air conditioned classrooms, buses and infrastructure equivalent to a five star resort like tennis court, swimming pool etc.

Make class work a non-issue

This is HARD, but take the class work out of the equation for a short time and work on the relationship ... work the "work" back in later.

Try the peer tutor technique

Ask yourself, is the difficult student good in one subject? Can he tutor a fellow student? Can he help someone else succeed? It works BOTH ways.

Never give up

No matter the behavior, don't give up on trying to reach that student...the negativity may be a defense for something deeper. Keep up the good fight!

CURRENT OCCUPATION:
SOFTWARE DESIGNER AT ENIC
GOVT.DEPT.GOVERNMENT OF HARYANA

EXPERIENCE (IN YEARS) : 4

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

Software design is the process of implementing software solutions to one or more set of problems. One of the important parts of software design is the software requirements analysis (SRA). It is a part of the software development process that lists specifications used in software engineering. If the software is "semi-automated" or user centered, software design may involve user experience design yielding a story board to help determine those specifications. If the software is completely automated (meaning no user or user interface), a software design may be as simple as a flow chart or text describing a planned sequence of events. There are also semi-standard methods like Unified Modeling Language and Fundamental modeling concepts. In either case, some documentation of the plan is usually the product of the design. Furthermore, a software design may be platform-independent or platform-specific, depending on the availability of the technology used for the design.

Software design can be considered as creating a solution to a problem in hand with available capabilities. The main difference between Software analysis and design is that the output of a software analysis consist of smaller problems to solve. Also, the analysis should not be very different even if it is designed by different team members or groups. The design focuses on the capabilities, and there can be multiple designs for the same problem depending on the environment that solution will be hosted. They can be operations systems, web pages, mobile or even the new cloud computing paradigm. Sometimes the design depends on the environment that it was developed for, whether it is created from reliable frameworks or implemented with suitable design patterns.

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

1. Self-Discipline

The support tech at company . Flexibility comes with the job. Often, computer problems occur after hours, in the middle of the night, and on weekends. A support tech will often be a loner, working on projects alone.

2. Excellent Problem-Solving Skills

The IT tech's job is largely about support – about fixing issues that arise and ensuring that all technologies are operating smoothly.

3. Attention to Detail

Many IT issues are caused by the smallest, almost imperceptible mistakes that will affect how a program runs or a web page looks. Your IT technician will need to have great attention to detail to be able to detect the tiny miscalculation and error.

4. Great Communication Skills

IT tech support person will be representing your company with users as an intermediary between them and the IT department. Communication is critical for proper resolution of issues. The support technician must have great listening skills. able to decipher the problem by listening to the user and then translating the descriptions in tech language to the IT department. then go back and explain the solution in simple terms to the user with limited tech knowledge so they can understand it. They should be able to educate the user. Often, they will have to handle stressed-out or angry users and learn how to deal with these types of situations appropriately.

Make class work a non-issue

This is HARD, but take the class work out of the equation for a short time and work on the relationship ... work the "work" back in later.

Try the peer tutor technique

Ask yourself, is the difficult student good in one subject? Can he tutor a fellow student? Can he help someone else succeed? It works BOTH ways.

Never give up

No matter the behavior, don't give up on trying to reach that student...the negativity may be a defense for something deeper. Keep up the good fight!

Make class work a non-issue

This is HARD, but take the class work out of the equation for a short time and work on the relationship ... work the “work” back in later.

Try the peer tutor technique

Ask yourself, is the difficult student good in one subject? Can he tutor a fellow student? Can he help someone else succeed? It works BOTH ways.

Never give up

No matter the behavior, don't give up on trying to reach that student...the negativity may be a defense for something deeper. Keep up the good fight!

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

Has a working knowledge of related technical areas

Shares technical knowledge with others Part of being a team player is a willingness to share knowledge with others. Helping others.

Loves to learn

One thing about technology is that it keeps changing. Hardware and software vendors continually upgrade their products. New IT megatrends miraculously appear, become the primary industry workhorse, and eventually fade away as an out-of-date legacy. love to learn because the tools of your profession are continually changing.

Is a team player There is an old African proverb that to go fast, travel alone to travel far, journey with others. spans many years and is a marathon, not a sprint. Being a team player and an ethical employee, in the long term, far outweighs the short term advances gained by unsportsmanlike conduct.

Thinks outside-the-box Creative thinking facilitates innovative ways to solve problems, reuse old technologies in new ways, create new processes, and define new approaches.

Sees problems as learning opportunities It is a wonderful feeling when technology and business processes run smoothly. While everyone, of course, does their utmost to reach this state, there is great value in viewing issues as opportunities to learn more about technology and how to use it effectively. Over time, your willingness and ability to fix production problems combined with the deep insights they bring can truly make you a “techie’s techie” and go-to person.

Loves a technical challenge

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

There are over 4 million registered nurses in the United States today.

That means that one in every 100 people is a registered nurse.

Nurses are in every community - large and small - providing expert care from birth to the end of life.

According to the January 2012 “United States Registered Nurse Workforce Report Card and Shortage Forecast” in the American Journal of Medical Quality, a shortage of registered nurses is projected to spread across the country between 2009 and 2030. In this state-by-state analysis, the authors forecast the RN shortage to be most intense in the South and the West

Nurses' roles range from direct patient care and case management to establishing nursing practice standards, developing quality assurance procedures, and directing complex nursing care systems.

No matter what their field or specialty, all nurses utilize the same nursing process; a scientific method designed to deliver the very best in patient care, through five simple steps.

Assessment - Nurses assess patients on an in-depth physiological, economic, social and lifestyle basis.

Diagnosis - Through careful consideration of both physical symptoms and patient behavior, the nurse forms a diagnosis.

Outcomes / Planning - The nurse uses their expertise to set realistic goals for the patient's recovery. These objectives are then closely monitored.

Implementation - By accurately implementing the care plan, nurses guarantee consistency of care for the patient whilst meticulously documenting their progress.

Evaluation - By closely analyzing the effectiveness of the care plan and studying patient response, the nurse hones the plan to achieve the very best patient outcomes.

What is the Goodsall rule for the management of fistulas in the treatment of anorectal abscess?

Updated: Dec 14, 2017

Author: Andre Hebra, MD; Chief Editor: John Geibel, MD, DSc, MSc, AGAF more...

References

When one is searching for a fistula tract's opening in the anal canal, the Goodsall rule is an excellent guideline. This rule states that an external opening anterior to a transverse line drawn across the anal verge is associated with a straight radial tract into the canal, whereas an external opening posterior to the transverse line follows a curved fistulous tract to the posterior midline rectal lumen (see the image below). Horseshoe fistulas occasionally are associated with anterior and posterior openings in the anal canal.

He is a good communicator.

He is having a renowned personality. Personality is defined as the characteristic set of behaviors, cognitions, and emotional patterns that evolve from biological and environmental factors.[1] While there is no generally agreed upon definition of personality, most theories focus on motivation and psychological interactions with one's environment.[2] Trait-based personality theories, such as those defined by Raymond Cattell define personality as the traits that predict a person's behavior. On the other hand, more behaviorally based approaches define personality through learning and habits. Nevertheless, most theories view personality as relatively stable.

Personality research has led to the development of a number of theories that help explain how and why certain personality traits develop.

He is having good communication skills. He belongs to Jabalpur (M.P). He completed his education from M.P. Currently he is working in Haryana. He described about retail banking and some other important topics upon Retail management.

Typical retail banking services offered by banks include:

Transactional accounts. Checking accounts (American English) Current accounts (British English)

Savings accounts.

Debit cards.

ATM cards.

Credit cards.

Traveler's cheques.

Mortgages.

Home equity loans.

Retail banking, also known as consumer banking, is the typical mass-market banking in which individual customers use local branches of larger commercial banks. Services offered include savings and checking accounts, mortgages, personal loans, debit/credit cards and certificates of deposit.

Retail consumers and corporate clients are quite different from each other and so is dealing with them. In the following write-up, I will enlist some major differences between corporate clients and retail customers.

1. While retail consumers take the buying decision on their own or after consulting few near ones, corporate clients have to consult multiple stakeholders before finalizing the deal. This, of course, makes it difficult for businesses to seal the deal with another enterprise for availing certain services or for buying products.

2. Another factor that distinguishes corporate

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

RISHI PAL IS SECURITY GUARAD AT SBI SHAHABAD. good security guard is always alert and aware of his surroundings. It is necessary to constantly stay focused and avoid distractions as much as possible, or risk missing something that could prove important. An unobservant officer might easily overlook something that could put lives in jeopardy, or miss out on witnessing a criminal or thief in action. This testimonial highlights an instance when our officers demonstrated alertness to ensure the security of those we protect.

2. Honesty

A good security guard must be honest. They are responsible for securing access to buildings and protecting a business against theft and other crimes. If a security guard is not honest, he might steal or put the company at risk. That is why it is so important for security companies to do thorough background checks on their security guards to make sure that they do not have any criminal history or dishonest activity.

3. Physical Fitness

He should be within a healthy weight range and exercise regularly. An unfit guard might not be able to perform their role optimally. Being in good physical shape leads to mental alertness. The officer needs to portray a clean professional image, with a neat uniform and their shirt clean and tucked in. A security guard should look well put together and portray themselves and the client in a positive manner. Security is at the forefront of relations with the general public. The officer needs to be courteous and professional at all times.

4. Good Communication Skills

A good Security Guard knows how to communicate effectively both verbally and in their writing skills. Clear, courteous communication can be the deciding factor in handling a tricky situation effectively. Communication also allows the security officer to carefully and accurately document each and every incident of importance, Indian Penal Code is the law that states the punishable offences in India, along with their punishments or penalty or both. As opposed, Criminal Procedure Code pertains to the law that describes the overall procedure which is to be followed while undertaking a criminal case. Nowadays, everywhere in the newspapers, news channels and other social media platforms, like Facebook, Twitter, etc. we come to know about the criminal activities that take place in our area or country such as rapes, murders, thefts, accidents, cyber attack, terrorist activities and so forth. To provide justice to the victims, every country has enforced certain laws for punishing the wrongdoer.

IPC and CrPC are two such laws which are created during the British Raj in India, which help the plaintiff to get justice. Read out this article excerpt to know the difference between Indian Penal Code (IPC) and Criminal Procedure Code (CrPC)

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

Mr. Maya Ram is now at JE post at BSNL Pehowa. Related to the chapter of communication the person is fit for clear all the queries of the students. Communication (from Latin communicare, meaning "to share")[1] is the act of conveying meanings from one entity or group to another through the use of mutually understood signs, symbols, and semiotic rules.

The main steps inherent to all communication are:[2]

The formation of communicative motivation or reason.

Message composition (further internal or technical elaboration on what exactly to express).

Message encoding (for example, into digital data, written text, speech, pictures, gestures and so on).

Transmission of the encoded message as a sequence of signals using a specific channel or medium.

Noise sources such as natural forces and in some cases human activity (both intentional and accidental) begin influencing the quality of signals propagating from the sender to one or more receivers.

Reception of signals and reassembling of the encoded message from a sequence of received signals.

Decoding of the reassembled encoded message.

Interpretation and making sense of the presumed original message.

The scientific study of communication can be divided into:

Information theory which studies the quantification, storage, and communication of information in general;

Communication studies which concerns human communication;

Biosemiotics which examines communication in and between living organisms in general.

kamal bajaj is a assistant professor in govt college karnal. HE has good knowledge about all the sector realted to tourism .Teaching can be quite satisfying for people who do it well. I know this because I am a teacher, too. Although I do not think I'm always the best teacher, do I know that the majority of my students love me, and I guess this is partly why good things happen in my classroom.Although every great teacher has their own special, unique style, I have found that there are nine specific universal qualities that are necessary for anyone who wants to teach effectively, whether they want to teach in an elementary school or a university. If any teacher possesses the following characteristics and qualities, he/she can become a very good teacher with large fan base.expert communication skills

superior listening skills

deep knowledge and passion for their subject matter

the ability to build caring relationships with students friendliness and approachability

excellent preparation and organization skills

strong work ethic

community-building skills

high expectations for all

Each of these characteristics is described fully below. Although great teachers may also possess a number of other wonderful qualities (like a sense of humor, personality, flexibility, kindness, leadership, classroom management, a calm demeanor, experience, and the ability to multitask), these are the qualities the best teachers universally possess.

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

With hospitality sector in India figuring amongst the best performing sectors, a career in hotel management opens up a plethora of opportunities for young generation today. According to industry experts, Indian hospitality sector, which is growing at Cumulative Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 14%, is just behind booming Information Technology (IT) sector. According to Planning Commission data, Hospitality sector is the second largest employer in the country after Information Technology sector, and is capable of offering employment opportunities to a varied range of unskilled workers to professional executives in the country. From this article, aspirants of this exciting field can know all about hotel management in India. No wonder, India's major luxury hotels like Leela, Oberoi and Taj figure amongst world's top hospitality groups. Besides this, investments by major foreign players like Starwood, Marriot in collaborations with domestic companies has further added to the career opportunity in hotel management domain in India. The growing volume and business of fast-food chains like Kentucky Fried Chicken, McDonald's, Pizza Hut and Domino's are increasingly contributing to the organized food business in the country and thus recruiting professional hotel management graduates to run their outlets. Thus, from luxury hotels to fast-food chains; and tourist hot spots to domestic and international airlines, career opportunities in this high-growth hospitality sector are enormous.

PHD IN HOTEL MANAGEMENT

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

Mr Mahesh is an assistant professor in KUK. He has a sound knowledge about the hotel industry. In addition to being good communicators, good teachers also happen to be excellent listeners. As the Turkish proverb says, "If speaking is silver, then listening is gold." Of course, effective communication only happens when at least two parties are actively involved in the process together, and the only way to know if communication is heard is by asking (and listening to the answer).

So in an ideal learning environment, teachers ask important questions and then actively, carefully, empathetically listen to what learners have to say. When good teachers develop this patient quality in themselves, they start to become great. Great teachers listen hard and then use what they hear to improve the communication. There is a saying that a teacher is only as good as what they know. If a teacher lacks knowledge in a subject, that dearth of understanding is passed along to the students. And keep in mind that although formal education is one way a teacher might gain the knowledge they need in order to teach well, there are other ways.

Passion is infectious. Love of a subject matter inspires a person to learn more, dig deeper, and think harder about it, so passion inspires deeper knowledge. The best teachers are those that clearly love their subjects and pass that passion and desire to learn more on to their students. When the teacher not only has the right answer to a student's question but can expand the discussion with vivid examples, amusing illustrative anecdotes, and relevant facts, and when the teacher has a deep well of understanding and expertise to draw on, then every lesson is enriched, and every student might be inspired.

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

MR RAHUL GARG IS assistant professor at kuk . He has good knowlege about hotel industry .In addition to being good communicators, good teachers also happen to be excellent listeners. As the Turkish proverb says,"If speaking is silver, then listening is gold." Of course, effective communication only happens when at least two parties are actively involved in the process together, and the only way to know if communication is heard is by asking (and listening to the answer).

So in an ideal learning environment, teachers ask important questions and then actively, carefully, empathetically listen to what learners have to say. When good teachers develop this patient quality in themselves, they start to become great. Great teachers listen hard and then use what they hear to improve the communication. There is a saying that a teacher is only as good as what they know. If a teacher lacks knowledge in a subject, that dearth of understanding is passed along to the students. And keep in mind that although formal education is one way a teacher might gain the knowledge they need in order to teach well, there are other ways.

ASSISATNT PROFESSOR

rajiv is a assistant professor in kuk .He has good knowledge about f&b sevices.It's not enough just to know what you're talking about, though, and a great teacher doesn't only teach from the head. In the best classrooms, hearts are involved, as well. In order to create successful learning environments, great teachers need to be able to build caring relationships with their students. It is the caring student-teacher relationship that facilitates the exchange of information.

The best teachers are often the ones that care the most deeply, not only about their jobs, but about every student they serve. It's not enough just to love the subject matter: Great teachers also share a love of students. Caring about the students is what inspires teachers to reach out, do better, communicate more, ask, learn, refine, and improve. This is something that can't be taught, not even in the best school.Because it's the teacher's job to help students learn, they must be easy to approach. Students will have questions that can't be answered if the teacher isn't friendly and easy to talk to. The crabby, unapproachable, terse, mean, arrogant, rude, all-business teacher can't last long. If the students think of their teacher as their enemy, they certainly won't learn much. The best teachers are the most open, welcoming, and easy to approach.
